

Fultz Fires Opening Gun of Winter League Campaign--Announces Fraternity Will Make 4 Demands on Minors

FRATERNITY GETS READY FOR ACTION AGAINST MINORS

Players' Grievances to Be Presented to National Association This Week.

EBBETS HANDS $5,000 BONUS TO ROBINSON

By FREDERICK G. LIEB.

Within a week the latest deal of Dave Fultz, president of the Ball Players' Fraternity, will be on its way to the National Commission and the National Association, especially the association, the association, the governing body of the minor leagues, according to Fultz, has not transacted its business in any too pleasing a manner.

Several weeks before the season closed Fultz gave out an interview in which he said the minor leagues would hear from him on no uncertain terms this winter. Fultz has outlined the grievances of the players in four distinct requests. He says they deal primarily with minor league matters, but not entirely.

Fultz said yesterday that he will not make public the Fraternity's four requests. He says they are not drawn up at this time that the commission and association receive his epistles.

Primarily his requests will attempt to bring about a better understanding between the Players' Fraternity and the minor leagues. "Conditions, as concerning the minor leagues, have been intolerable," said Fultz, "and we simply have reached a point where it was necessary to call a halt. I believe our new requests are reasonable. They are not drawn up and we make no threat whatsoever we will insist that present conditions undergo a change."

"In the future affairs in the minor leagues must be conducted with the truth in all dealings between minor league clubs and their players be readily ascertained."

Cannot Ignore Fraternity.

Fultz says the day in which the National Association can afford to ignore the Fraternity has come to an end. What has particularly annoyed him is that the National Association, which has heretofore refused to answer any communication sent him by the Fraternity in substance is the same treatment from the National Association that he gets from the commission.

"In all dealings between the minor league clubs and their players he wants to be furnished with the club's full statement of the case, and any arguments it may advance."

Fultz's requests will be taken up by the National Association at its annual meeting in New Orleans next November 10.

Edward Harrow, president of the International League, and one of the leading powers in the National Association, said last night that he was more or less of a personal matter with Secretary Farrell of the association.

"My league has always had pleasant relations with Fultz, and I always have been glad to furnish him with whatever information he has asked for. I think if all Fultz asks for is a fair hearing, I will give it to him. The Fraternity and the National Association he shall have no difficulty in having his requests granted. I was in favor of complying with the request at its meeting in San Francisco a year ago, but could get no one to go along with me."

Views on World's Series.

While Fultz says his requests deal mostly with minor league matters, he says one, at least, will also interest the big leagues. This one will probably ask that the Fraternity be granted a member on the revised National Commission.

Fultz also is of the opinion that the method of conducting the world's series might undergo a big change. As he is the official representative of all the players, his views are interesting.

"I believe the idea of a contest between the two pennant winners is technically a grand idea," said Fultz. "The public wants such a series, as they are anxious to know which is the better team, and I do not think it will ever be discontinued."

"However, such a series is a delicate affair, and every attempt must be made to run it as near perfect as possible. The amounts are so big, and the interest so keen that it must be carefully guarded against every evil--whether it comes from the players' side or the managers. And the sporting end must always be kept above the money end. It must be a contest of skill rather than a grab for money. Evils may have crept in here and there, but the series itself always has been above reproach. When you look back and take count of the short series since 1912, it is wonderful. Three series run to five games and one to four."

"As to the high price of world's series tickets I am hardly in a position to discuss that. I have very pronounced views on the subject, but sometimes it is advisable to keep your views under cover. I will say though, I never was in favor of gouging."

Ebbets Returns Money.

The lines formed in front of the Ebbets Field ticket windows yesterday, but they were not in line to buy. Charley Ebbets had the pleasant job yesterday of returning $50,000 to such customers as had invested $50,000 to sit in those comfortable "extra" grand stand chairs for the sixth game of the world's series.

However, say what you like about Uncle Charley he does not go back on his word. When Uncle Ebbets hired Wilbert Robinson to run his Dodgers for him he made Wilbert a verbal promise that he would drop a $5,000 check into his stocking should he ever get Brooklyn into a world's series. Brooklyn got into a world's series sure enough and the Squire did not forget his promise. Robby has a new $5,000 check in addition to his slice of the lower end, proving it isn't such a bad world after all.

EASTERN LEAGUE MEETING.

Worcester, Mass., Oct. 16.—Daniel O'Dell of Hartford Conn., was elected president and secretary of the Eastern League at a meeting in this city today. Thomas Sullivan, a Hartford newspaper man, was elected treasurer and directors were chosen as follows: James H. Clarkin, Hartford; Herby E. Carey, Worcester; William R. Carey, Springfield; H. Eugene Miller, New Britain; M. O'Neill, who was secretary last year, succeeds T. H. Murray of Boston. O'Neill expressed himself in favor of an eight club circuit next year.

Such Duffy, owner of the Portland, Me. club, announced before the meeting that his franchise was for sale. A salary claim of $200 against the New York club held by Jesse Sklar, former manager, was paid by the league.

CARRIGAN MAY BE LANNIN'S SUCCESSOR

Retired Manager of Boston Americans Likely to Be Club President.

OTHER BASEBALL GOSSIP

That Joseph J. Lannin will dispose of the Boston American League club, if he has not already done so, is taken for granted in Hub baseball circles. One source has it that Lannin's interest in the sale of the Red Sox is named as the world's series was started.

Bill Carrigan, who at the end of the world's series announced his retirement as manager of the Red Sox, is named as the next president of the club. It can be said on the best of authority that at least two syndicates are willing to back Carrigan in the acquisition of the club. One of the syndicates does not even ask Carrigan to invest any money in the proposition. Action in the matter is expected very soon.

James E. Gaffney, former owner of the Boston Nationals, who is desirous of purchasing the Brooklyn club, yesterday declared that John McGraw would not be associated with him in the event the club was sold. McGraw belongs to the Giants and he will stay with them, so far as I am concerned," said Gaffney. "I am not sure that McGraw would not be associated with him in the event the club is having quite a time sending back the money the club received for the third Brooklyn game of the world's series."

It is understood that Gaffney's partner in the offer for the Brooklyn club is Harry Sinclair of Federal League fame, who made money on the venture. Sinclair has been making more millions in the Oklahoma oil fields and hankers for another big score in baseball.

Jake Daubert, the left handed captain of the N. L. champion Dodgers, is not going to play in the world's series, and intends to forget the world's series by shooting some rabbits, deer and bear in the Pennsylvania mountains. Jake is getting ready for an extended hunting trip through his home country in the Keystone State. The former minor has even a better batting average with the gun than with the bat. Not only is Jake a star on the baseball field, but he is also a star in the woods. He has been making high among the best semi-pro wing shots in the country. After getting through his baseball career Jake intends to act as agent for an ammunition company.

STEVENS' FAULTS CORRECTED.

Engineers Receive Stiff Workout—Goodbye in Lineup.

Stevens' gridiron work but through a long and arduous season in which weaknesses which cropped up in the Middlebury games last Saturday were corrected. The line particularly came in for a stiff workout. The big freshman who substituted at guard in Saturday's game, was tried out at that position again today, as Coach Rodgers directed. The line was in good shape. The central positions Rodgers will be satisfied, as Hopkins and Braun have proved. The line is in good shape. The line is in good shape. The line is in good shape.

Harter, the Yankees High School boy, was sent in at quarter yesterday. Goodbye to the baseball season is over, and the line is in good shape. The line is in good shape. The line is in good shape. The line is in good shape.

BOARD TALK IS GIVEN TO CORNELL ELEVEN

Coaches Corrected Weaknesses of Ithacans Shown in Williams Game.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 16.—The weaknesses shown by the Cornell eleven in the Williams game, particularly the faults of the ends, were discussed at length by the Cornell coaches in a blackboard talk to the squad today, which took up most of the afternoon's practice.

The variety enjoyed a needed rest, except the end candidates, who are causing Ray Van Orman, assistant coach, no little concern. The situation, however, is improved by the announcement that Zender, one of the fastest wing men, will be able to resume daily practice. Though he is behind in development, he should be able to return to the Harvard game.

Hoff and Ensworth, two subs, have shown more speed than Hyerson and Ellensberger, who have been playing the varsity positions, but as a whole all the ends are slow.

HAUGHTON SIGNS ONE YEAR CONTRACT

Will Receive $15,000 for Coaching Harvard Football Team.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 16.—Percy Haughton, president of the Boston National League team, assumed full control of the Harvard football squad this afternoon. Haughton, it leaked out today, signed a one year contract last Friday that calls for a $15,000 salary. He is to receive $7,500 from the athletic association and a similar amount from a fund donated by the graduates.

The Harvard football coaches were more smiles today than at any time for two weeks, when practically all of the players who participated in the North Carolina game and most of the long list of cripples appeared on Soldiers Field. Cane and Batchelder, tackles, were the only injured players who got into the line-up of scrimmage and the guards and tackles about a yard behind. About four yards outside and back of the ends are the halfbacks. They stand parallel with the ends and the guards and tackles about a yard behind. About four yards outside and back of the ends are the halfbacks. They stand parallel with the ends and the guards and tackles about a yard behind.

There was a lot of individual coaching this afternoon. Leary spent his time with the ends, while Haughton ran the signal practice. Thorndike, Harvard's huskiest center rush, replaced Harris and Cane, and is likely to be worked with the ends. The backs for the line are Robinson, Hitchcock, Horne and Casey, worked as it started Saturday.

A LETUP AT SYRACUSE.

Hollenback Does Not Ask His Men to Report Before Breakfast.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 16.—The excellent showing made by the Syracuse football team against Franklin and Marshall last Saturday induced Bill Hollenback to let up a bit today. The team will not report to the coach before breakfast. Tomorrow's work will again be started, for on Saturday Syracuse needs a spring of innovation on Syracuse in the form of a 7 o'clock morning signal drill. The idea of this drill is to get the men so thoroughly accustomed to the idea that there can be no chance of slipping a cog in the coming big games. Syracuse plays Pittsburgh, Michigan and Dartmouth on the next three Saturdays, and it is a man's size job to get the team in shape to meet such a combination.

Chief Neuharth, the 300 pound halfback, who failed to live up to expectations last year, is playing the game this year. He is the hardest working man on the team, and with his speed, weight and line planning ability should prove a wonder this year.

RUTGERS TEAM CRIPPLED.

Three Regulars Out of Lineup—Jerseyites in Long Drill.

New Brunswick, Oct. 16.—The stiffest drill of the year was given the Rutgers eleven today by Coach Sanford. The team was badly crippled by the absence of both regular tackles and guards, who were injured in the W. and L. game last Saturday. Sanford is confident that with a good line it would have been easy for Rutgers to do better than tie the Southerners.

As the next game will be with Brown, Sanford kept his men hard at work this afternoon. The backfield appears to be in good shape, but some new men will have to be developed for the tackle positions unless Randall and Robeson get back. Weller, a former Manual star of Brooklyn, may fill the place.

The practice on the new multiple kick also was resumed today, its value having been amply demonstrated on Saturday when Hazel saved the game with two long field goals.

OPEN BILLIARD TOURNEY.

National Novice Event is Begun in Five Local Rooms.

The amateur billiard season got under way last night with the opening of the first national novice tournament under the direction of the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players. Competition in the preliminary rounds began at five of the seven big rooms enrolled in the tourney. Louis Reusche, president of the national association, was a contestant at Flynn's. It was his first experience in a sanctioned competition. Robert B. Cook beat him, 100 to 75. Celebrities who participated in the opening at Flynn's were Edward W. Gardner, national amateur champion, and J. Ferdinand Posenburg. The summary:

Thum's Academy—O. J. Elder defeated Harry Jacobson, 100 to 97. Winner's high run, 11; loser's 11.

Flynn's Academy—Robert B. Cook defeated L. Reusche, 100 to 75. Winner's high run, 11; loser's 11.

Cranford's Academy—John T. Solinger defeated J. Jacobson, 100 to 97. Winner's high run, 11; loser's 11.

Levy's Academy—William Horton defeated S. Reusche, 100 to 99. Winner's high run, 20; loser's 22.

Day's—Prof. Schmidt defeated S. L. Lee, 100 to 76. Winner's high run, 7; loser's 10.

Irish World's Series?

Cork and Kerry to Clash for Gaelic Football Title.

Gaelic football fans are looking forward to the big game on Sunday with great interest and enthusiasm as the baseball fans looked forward to the recent world's series. The game will decide the Gaelic football championship of America. Cork and Kerry met early in the season, and the game ended with the teams deadlocked in a tie. Each is confident of victory in next Sunday's contest.

The Gaelic football clash between Cork and Kerry will feature the annual fall games of the two teams. The game will be held in another Gaelic football game, and there will be a ship building contest between the two teams. The strong Offaly aggressive in the Bay Staters Are Using Fine Shift and Combination Forward-Lateral Pass.

OTHER GRIDIRON GOSSIP

By DANIEL.

Colgate brought its remarkable spread formation to West Point last October and shipped the Army. Two weeks later it took the spread along to New Haven and rounced Yale. That creation of Larry Bankart's was the biggest football play of the year and forced the mystifying shift that Harvard flashed in the final moments of the Princeton game to take second place. Colgate's play has already made its presence felt this season—much to the discomfort of Illinois last Saturday.

Now comes Tufts with a couple of plays with which it has earned the tactical supremacy so far this season. One of the plays is established on sound principles and may well be copied by the bigger eleven. The other is a somewhat flimsy and risky play that may work only once in twenty tries. However, it did work against Harvard and anything that can accomplish a victory such as Tufts scored over the Crimson bears looking into it.

One of the Tufts masterpieces is a shift patterned very much after the Minnesota variety imported into New Haven by Coach Tom Siewick. The other is a combination forward and lateral or whippard pass. It was that pass which whipped Harvard. Tufts tried it against Princeton, but it failed to give satisfaction. It is of interest to note that the Tufts plays are the creations of Dr. C. E. Whelan, who, like Bankart, was a star at Tufts. Dr. Whelan and Bankart are very closely associated and we may find Colgate using some of the Tufts stuff.

Like Shellin's Shift.

The Whelan shift is a rather complicated affair, founded on the guards and tackles back principle. The eleven lines up with the ends and the center on the line of scrimmage and the guards and tackles about a yard behind. About four yards outside and back of the ends are the halfbacks. They stand parallel with the ends and the guards and tackles about a yard behind. About four yards outside and back of the ends are the halfbacks. They stand parallel with the ends and the guards and tackles about a yard behind.

Then the play gets into motion. Just as the ball is about to be snapped the guards and tackles hop up, the halfbacks cross over and the quarterback sent off to the side. The center and the halfbacks cross over and the quarterback sent off to the side. The center and the halfbacks cross over and the quarterback sent off to the side.

The passing play is one of the very hazardous variety. It calls for a combination of two distinct plays each of which in itself is difficult enough to make good. The play is started with a regular forward pass—either the long pass to the ends or the short pass over the line. The man catching the pass does not run. All he has to do is make a lateral or backward pass to the other side of the line. Very simple, that, isn't it?

It resembles in many ways a play sprung by Western Reserve against the Navy in the early days of reformed football and the forward pass. The Reserve forwards lined straight across the field with the backs making a second line. The ball was snapped and then began a series of handball passes that kept the Navy on the jump.

The Colgate spread calls for the lining up of the forwards straight across the field—a kick formation spread out. Its effectiveness is born of the fact that it can produce a forward pass, a punt, a drop kick or a quarterback run. With a fast quarter like Anderson, who can run with the ball, kick or throw it, that play is a wonder.

A Threat for Lehigh.

It is said that Yale may drop Lehigh from its schedule. Overzealous aggressiveness is the charge against Lehigh. They said the thing last year, when Lehigh held Yale to 0. It might be remembered that "overzealous aggressiveness" was one of the things for which Hinesy was kicked out of Yale last year. Found column last year.

This season is a record breaker for conflicts in dates. The Harvard-Cornell and Princeton-Dartmouth games are both scheduled for October 28. At Ithaca they are already collecting fences and other material for a bonfire, while, judging from its overwhelming victory over the Massachusetts Aggies, Dartmouth has the makings for one of its periodical victories over the Tigers.

Brown's overwhelming success at the expense of Amherst means one of two things—either Brown has one of its old time elements or Amherst is weaker than it has ever been before. An official at the Brown-Amherst game declared the Providence eleven to be several touchdowns stronger than Harvard.

TWO HOUR DRILL FOR TIGER SQUAD

Interference Formations Occupy Attention of Princeton Gridders.

AMES RUNS THE TEAM

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 16.—Coach Rush never has worked the Princeton football squad harder this season than he did this afternoon, when he put his men through two full hours of work at forming interference. No scrimmage was held, but the interference practice went harder with the men than a real scrimmage game would work hence.

Each one of the backs was given a chance to carry the ball and before the session was over holes were being made for them and men were picked off with regularity. A short signal drill in preparation for the Lafayette game next Saturday brought the practice to a close. Eddy and Higley were absent from the lineup because of examinations. Ames ran the team in Eddy's place. While Funk and Wynn substituted for Eddy and Higley, Ames still is not expected to play by the time of the Dartmouth game next Saturday.

Treasurer Joseph Murray of the Princeton athletic association gave out the statement this evening that as far as the Princeton football team is concerned there would be no changes in the schedule of the Princeton football team this fall. The Dartmouth game here will be played and it is almost as certain that the Lafayette game also will be played here.

Unfounded statements to the effect that a quarantine has been placed on the university have resulted in the arrival of a number of queries at the athletic association office today asking if there were to be any changes in the schedule.

PLAYERS TO BE NUMBERED.

Fordham to Yield to Request of Football Fans.

Coach Gargan ordered a half hour added to the Fordham practice yesterday and the Maroon's workout lasted until dark. Cadell, Kendrick and May still are on the injured list. They are suffering from boils and the absence of these veterans is worrying the Maroon coaches. Cantwell injured his knee in tackle practice, and retired from the workout early in the afternoon.

The practice consisted of all usual drills and a dummy scrimmage, one side of the line opposing the other. The Fordham players will wear big black numerals on their backs in the Saturday game on Saturday at Fordham Field.

ARMY REGULARS ABSENT.

McKean, Harmon and Vidal out of Lineup in Practice.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 16.—Punching in the back field as evidenced in Saturday's game against Holy Cross, the further development of the kicking game and a stiffening of the coaches' defense were some of the things the coaches will have to work on this week. McKean, who is indisposed, Harmon and Vidal, who are injured, and one or two of the lesser lights were absent from the workout this afternoon.

The soldiers did not scrimmage except in the dummy fashion, but there was a lengthy signal and talk by the mentors, who showed where there was plenty of room for improvement.

THREE N. Y. U. VARSITY MEN ON HOSPITAL LIST

Hoffman, Hammerschlag and Capt. Bernstein Are Injured.

In a crippled condition the New York University football team reported a practice yesterday afternoon on Ohio Field. Only a few of the regulars had sufficiently recovered from the strenuous game with Harvard last Saturday to be on hand for the light workout that Coach Eustis held.

Three of the varsity players were injured last Saturday, and it is doubtful whether two of them will be in condition for the Western contest. Hoffman, the big right tackle, is suffering with a severely bruised knee. He will go to the Fordham Hospital today for an X-ray examination. Hammerschlag received a hard blow in the face which resulted in an abrasion in his nose, and Capt. Bernstein was pretty well bruised. Coach Eustis returned to fundamental drills in yesterday's workout.

MAKESHIFT VARSITY BEATS VALE SCRUBS

Three Touchdowns Are Scored—Virginia Poly Game Shifted to Friday.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 16.—It was a day of rest of the Yale varsity today. Tad Jones, following the usual Monday programme, gave the men a layoff. The Lehigh game was a hard one, but none of the men was injured, in contrast to the game of a year ago, when five Yale players were put out for three weeks. The regulars watched the scrubs play.

The makeshift varsity made three touchdowns against a rather weak scrubs team. Braden making two of the scores and Church the other. Church's touchdown was made following the catch of a forward pass from Neville, who played halfback in place of Bob Eltingham. Tad was in at tackle today, in place of the regular center, being in his old place in the middle of the line. Gates, Cornerford and Tufts were the only men on the field who played against Lehigh, and they were not worked hard.

The game this week with the Virginia Poly team has been advanced to Friday because of a payment in the Bowl on Saturday.

BERRY IN PENN LINEUP.

Pennsylvania Champion, Back From Border, Does Football Togs.
